A VERY OLD INSTITUTION

In 1828 in a small store on Main street, Louisville, the jewelry establishment of Lemon & Son was founded by Jas. I. Lemon. From a humble beginning this store has grown until now they are numbered among the best known diamond establishments in the United States. Today many of its customers are grandsons and great-grandsons of those who bought their silverware and family jewels from Jas. I. Lemon over ninety years ago. Visitors are always given a cordial welcome. Customers come from many states in the Union to purchase diamonds and silverware of this old concern. Lemon & Son's stock of diamonds is considered one of the finest in the South and is well worth viewing. An invitation is given every one in Kentucky to visit their establishment in the Seelbach Hotel Bldg., whenever in Louisville.

REVIVAL MEETING

A Revival Meeting of the Kears Tabernacle C. M. E. church, this city, closed Sunday night with great success. Membership was greatly increased, ten additions being made to the church. The meeting was conducted by Rev. Thos. H. Capeland, of Hopkinsville, Ky., and the singing was led by Mrs. Capeland, his wife. We are very grateful to Dr. Clark, the pastor of the M. E. church, and his board of officers for the opportunity afforded the white race to visit the song service Sunday afternoon. Seemingly, they enjoyed the old plantation songs, with much delight, as their race do. The choir was conducted by Prof. G. W. Adams and Mrs. T. H. Capeland, of Hopkinsville, Ky. A nice contribution was offered on Sunday and on Monday a check in the sum of $25.00 came as quite a surprise from the Hon. R. A. Chiles to aid in this work.
